Thanksgiving Day.

Prizes to high and gracious Heaven

Ascend throughout the land;

Prizes today for what is given

By God's all-bounteous hand.

And every heart that knoweth good

Before his throne is bent,

Yielding to him his gratitude

For countless blessings sent.

And though the swiftly-passing year

Flies like its changes, too,

Its angel and its burning tear,

And disappointments new;

And from our bosom hath been torn

The dearest object known,

And we are left, bereft and worn,

With cheerless grief alone—

Yet this was but the chastening rod

To guide to better ways;

To lift our hearts from earth to God,

In love and thankful praise.

For those great blessings He doth give

To us so faithfully,

Bestowed each hour and day we live,

Abundant, rich and free!

Our Nation's crowning glory with Peace;

No strife nor war, no bloodshed,

Content, and truth, and love increase,

And harmony prevails;

With Freedom, God's ennobling boon,

Which universal reigns,

And condescends to all sweet common

The States from Maine to Maine.

The fertile soil of our harvest-field,

Has filled with its unequalled yield

The garner of the land;

While hills and dale, and valley seem

With harvest's golden gleam.

Whose mellow fruits the rivals seem

Of Autumn's golden gleam.

And to those harvests of kind Heaven,

These benefits and wealth,

Through the favored land was given

The blessing of the land;

Nonchalant, and the most of them

And city with its wealth.

And cast the stricken thousands down

In anguish and in death.

So, for these blessings of the year,

Let us give thanks with song and cheer,

And while we raise our hearts in praise,

Our arm shall be stayed

To make each day of time for us

Aglow, Thanksgiving Day!

—D. Brainerd Williamson.

TIP'S THANKSGIVING.

Such a cold Thanksgiving day as it was! with the thermometer hiding shyly

under the very bottom of its glass prison, and with the wind racing shrieking wildly along the telegraph wires. There was snow, too—dry, whirling flakes, that felt like needles when they touch your face or hands. Even the great, gloomy, dirt-degraded warehouses seemed to shiver and crouch beneath the fury of the cruel north wind.

"Shine, shine, shine up for a nickel!"

Tip's shrill, boyish voice rose above the shrieking of the wind and his round face, made rosy and glowing by the nipping of the wind and snowflakes, shone from behind the folds of his rugged red "comforter."

"Where?" gasped Tip, as a sudden gust of wind almost forced him to make an impromptu seat of the hard pavement. "What a day! Wish I was to home. Even Grumpy Macarty's old shirt is better a nothink. I don't see why they call this Thanksgiving day. I don't get nothink to be thankful to anybody for, as I know

an, 'less 'tis this jolly warm comforter round my neck."

Tip didn't stop to think, I am sure;

if he had considered a moment he would have found many other things to be thankful for.

"Granny must 'a' had a streak of luck when she got 'n this comforter.

Just as good as new, only a little better.

"Praps I'd made a bad haul yesterday.

Ugh! I wouldn't get a nothink-pickin'

"Oh, I guess not, thank you," said

Mr. John Branch, rubbing his bruises tenderly. "Don't you want to blacken

my boots, boy?"

"Course, sir," began Tip, brightly;

"but," doubtfully, "your boots don't seem to need much blacking."

"I think they do need shining," said

Mr. Branch, with quiet decision, a funny laugh in the jolly brown eyes.

So Tip set to work with a will, and in less than a minute Mr. Branch's boots were like twinkling mirrors.

"View! I bet that fellow's rich," thought delighted Tip, as he pocketed the quarter of a dollar Mr. Branch insisted on his taking. "Praps he's too proud to carry small change in his pockets. You don't catch me belin' dollars, do you? Pennies sir's good's money, if you've got plenty of 'em."

An' now for the sweetest reward in town! Oh, cricky, that fellow's lost his pocket-book, sars! sars! making a div for the pavement."

"Hil, hi, there!" shrieked Tip, shrilly,

"come back an' get your property!"

Says, mister! and Tip hastened after

Mr. Branch as fast as his lame leg would permit.

"Wish he'd take his cap off'n his

FRIDAY, NOV. 14, 1884.

The Golden Circle.

Dr. James Torrey and wife, reached the little anniversary of their marriage on Wednesday last, and to celebrate this notable event with due observance about 200 of their relatives and friends gathered at their residence on Wednesday evening, bringing with them many tokens of their love and esteem. The reception hours were from 8 to 10 o'clock, and the worthy couple were the recipients of hearty and congratulatory remarks from their many friends.

At the close of the introduction ceremony, Rev. Mr. Leonard, pastor of the Pilgrim church, came forward and after a few remarks expressive of his pleasure in being present at this interesting gathering and his inability to render such service in addressing the worthy pair as the occasion demanded, through his brief acquaintance with the people here, he introduced Rev. Mr. Young, a former pastor of the same church, with which the couple have been connected. Mr. Young said that it gave him great pleasure to congratulate the bride and groom on their years standing, and he thanked God that he had been permitted to live together so many years, and had been so active and useful in promoting the welfare of the community and in all the various enterprises of their life.

A short interval was passed in singing familiar tunes by the guests, and the company was then invited to the dining room, where the caterer, Mr. of Boston, had spread a rich repast, including the choicest delicacies. After the supper had been discussed a short time was passed in social greeting and the guests then left for their homes.

Dec. James Torrey was married to Miss Catherine Whitmarsh, at the residence of her father, Mr. Peter Whitmarsh, in East Weymouth, Nov. 13th, 1884, by Rev. John C. Phillips, pastor of the North Weymouth church. The bride was one of a family of eleven children, among whom was our esteemed friend of many years, Capt. Joshua Whitmarsh, of Abington, whose deceased son, aged 12, was the bridegroom.

The bride was a daughter of the late Rev. Mr. J. H. Phillips, of Abington, and the bridegroom was a son of the late Rev. Mr. J. H. Phillips, of Abington. The wedding ceremony was a simple one, and was attended by a large number of friends.

At the close of the ceremony, the bride and groom were accompanied to the residence of the bride's father, where they were received by their friends. The evening was spent in social gathering and the guests then left for their homes.

Wedding Ceremony.

Two marriages were celebrated on Friday last. The first was that of Mr. Frank H. Beale, formerly of this city, now residing in New York, and Miss Mary E. Beale, daughter of the late Mr. Beale, of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Leonard, pastor of the Pilgrim church, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Peter Whitmarsh, in East Weymouth, Nov. 13th, 1884.

SOUTH WEYMOUTH.

The Wednesday Night Club held the first supper of the season at their rooms on last Friday evening.

The ladies had been invited and plates were spread for the thirty-six who were seated at the tables at 8 o'clock.

W. C. T. U. entered for the occasion and provided a most satisfactory and desirable spread, eliciting for their efforts the hearty thanks of the Club.

There was an abundance of attractive "New Year's" cards, and the president, D. M. Murray, had called to order, and divine favor had been invoked by Rev. W. H. Foster, the ladies and gentlemen present proceeded to partake of the good cheer provided.

Whitman's delicious cream. Later adjournment was had to the lower room, where the usual discussion was to take place.

President Murray had sent out circulars to all members, asking them to be prepared to speak on the lessons of the late election, but as the election was still in doubt, the moralizing thereof could not be drawn very clearly.

After the closing of the evening office, the members were called upon after another and the time was fully occupied till 11 o'clock.

The new pastor of the M. E. church, Rev. Mr. Stetson, of Providence, R. I., commenced his labors here last Sunday.

At the skating rink last Wednesday evening, a fine game of polo took place between the East Weymouth team and the King Phillips of Rockland.

Samuel Hedges has taken the agency of a new kerosene lamp which can be burned at a half cent per hour.

Painter Peakes has handsomely painted the mansion of Mr. Albert Houlton.

Mr. Oliver Houlton will soon commence painting the one of Mr. J. P. Lovell.

A domestic surprise party was given by the G. A. R. sewing circle to Mrs. Adella Burrell (widow of the late Mr. Martin E. Burrell) on Saturday evening.

Mr. E. H. Matherson has in process of erection on High street a new and commodious barn for the purpose of carrying on the business of dairy farming.

Mr. M. intends adding in the spring to his already large herd of cows some specimens of improved stock and will take pride in producing milk and butter of unequalled quality.

The ladies of East Weymouth and vicinity will be pleased to know that Mrs. M. A. Welch has received from the ladies of the village and vicinity a number of letters and telegrams and refreshments for her services three days of each week.

Engagements sent by mail promptly attended to. Address Box 107, East Weymouth.

Mr. J. W. Taylor, a quiet and respectable citizen who travels about retailing dry goods, reports that several attempts have been made to stop him on the highway between this village and Lovell's Corner.

A meeting of the directors of the Weymouth Agricultural Society will be held on Monday evening at the residence of Mr. J. W. Taylor.

NORTH WEYMOUTH.

Mr. Calvin Packard, a familiar person in this village, has lately entered into possession of a small property in the farming town of Upton, Worcester County, this state.

No one will regret his good fortune.

Lonis A. Cook Esq. was yesterday admitted to the Plymouth County bar at Plymouth, and is authorized to practice in all the courts of that county.

He will continue his association with Judge Keith at Abington, besides maintaining his office here.

The police will be closed on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock during the winter season. Thus far the police have been in the office on those evenings after the hour specified.

Mr. Martin Thomas still remains in a very critical condition, but was quite easy on Wednesday, when more hope was entertained of his recovery.

HENRY.

Mr. Albert Lound, of East street, shot a wild grouse from a tree while passing over his place last Monday morning.

Mr. G. Goldard French has so far recovered from his severe sickness that he is now able to sit up a little during the day.

An enterprising new dealer, Mr. A. E. Pratt, has moved his printing press to L. Torrey's building, and is showing some fine samples of job printing.

S. & D. Ford have placed a street lantern in front of their residence.

Our streets are beginning to show quite a display of light in the evening.

The Village Improvement Association in this village. Who will be the next illuminator?

J. L. Newton is having a new stable built near his house.

Last Saturday evening a party of youngsters, feeling bored with their usual routine, decided to go out for a walk through the principal streets of the village, making quite a demonstration with beating of drums and ringing bells.

Miss Nellie Wallace had called to friends and acquaintances on Friday morning of last week.

Mr. J. W. Taylor, a quiet and respectable citizen who travels about retailing dry goods, reports that several attempts have been made to stop him on the highway between this village and Lovell's Corner.

Wet Weather Talk.

It isn't an art to gamble on a coin-toss.

It's a science to read the weather and make it.

Why, it is a science.

Men generally do not believe in it.

Although they "read" the weather sometimes, they do not know how to read it.

And take the signs as they come.

That is the common way.

Of men that read as long as I can.

I have watched the weather enough to know that it is not a science, but a mystery.

And I don't like the way things went on the weather.

But, all the same, the rain some way has got to come.

Her fingers, for instance, attract all sorts of light bodies, such as ribbons and fragments of paper, and slight friction applied to the hair will cause filaments to separate in a remarkable manner. A pass of her hand was enough to cause a napkin to adhere strongly to a piece of furniture, and any one who attempts to remove the cloth will receive a half-inch spark from it.
